A main fr an out of the way T.B. like the one at Haanagal is unnecessary - It is no doubt true that this Bungalow is situated in a cool spot and is practically the last T.B. on the Road to Bellary But there normally are likely to be very few travellers who visit there (except of course this year when on account of the distress in this area there must have been quite a rush of inspecting officers)

I am not in favour of permanently adding to the establishment ~~if necessary~~
